The forty-ton whale which was lately exhibited at Boston, will probably be exhibited in Chicago.

John Kelly promises that the Democratic war in New York city is just begun. From this it would seem that he proposes to give the politics of New York a lively shaking up.

It is said by Commissioner Bentley, of the patent office at Washington, that four millions of dollars were paid out last year on fraudulent pension claims. He says anybody can get a pension who is willing to make a false oath.

The Rev. Enoch Tasker, of the West Wisconsin conference, died at Eau Claire on Thursday morning last. He was well known in this part of the State where he had many friends. He held the position of chaplain of the State prison for several years.

The Eau Claire Free Press thinks it would be more significant if forty members of the Legislature were solid for Keyes, than the announcement that forty newspapers were pronounced for him. Mr. Keyes will get more than forty votes on the first ballot for United States Senator.

Justice Cassiday, of the supreme court, has written five opinions during this assignment, and are as follows: Clark vs. Bartlett; that portion of judgment appealed from affirmed. Davis vs. McCurdy; that portion of judgment appealed from affirmed. Davis vs. Bray; that portion of judgment appealed from affirmed. Hamilton vs. Crossman; that portion of judgment appealed from affirmed. Chase vs. Ostrom; judgment reversed and remanded for a new trial.

Governor Charlie Foster, of Ohio, who has been a strong candidate for the United States Senate, has withdrawn from the cabinet. He thought his candidacy against Sherman might lead to that degree of bitterness which would injure the party. This is an honorable course for Governor Foster to take. Secretary Sherman will probably have the field pretty much to himself. If there is any one man in the state of Ohio who should be honored with a responsible office, that man is Sherman.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean did not help General Garfield much when it undertook to invite suggestions as to who the President-elect should appoint to cabinet positions. The "suggestions" make the matter more mixed than ever. Out of 1,751 letters received, Grant and Sherman were endorsed by 174 and 163 persons respectively, and they followed more than four score other names for cabinet positions. There is one satisfaction the Republicans enjoy, and that is, that Garfield is abundantly able to select his own cabinet.

In a small rural graveyard near the little hamlet of Clittingville, Vermont, is nearly completed one of the most costly private monuments in the United States. It is being built by Mr. Beaman, a wealthy resident of New York State, in memory of his wife and daughter from whom he has been bereaved. He now proposes to build a monument to their memory which will cost at least as much as the house he intended to build for them. Over one hundred men have been at work on the monument for some months. It is a massive granite mausoleum vestibule, sheltering the vault which contains the dead. Within the vestibule are statuary memorials of the dead on richly wrought consoles, and the chief statue without is the angel of immortality kneeling at the door, holding in her hand the key to the portals of the tomb. In all the United States there can not be found a more costly monument than the one which is nearly completed in this almost unknown little village in Vermont.

Lost summer the personal enemies of State Senator W. T. Price, of Black River Falls, made charges against him, alleging that he was a trespasser upon government land, in other words they charged him with stealing timber. The matter was reported to the interior department, at Washington, and proceedings were instituted against him, and at last he was dragged before the United States district court at Madison. When all the facts in the case came to light, the suit against him and Mr. Sawyer was discontinued. It now appears that the scheme was gotten up by those who opposed Mr. Price for Congress, and who supported the candidacy of Mr. Thorp. It was nothing less than a political slander, and the persons who were the chief movers in it will be held in contempt by those who desire to see justice done under all circumstances. We are glad to announce that Mr. Price has been vindicated. It is true, he is in some respects a strange character. But he is one of those positive men, firm and honest in his convictions, fearless in giving his opinions of men and measures, and never has he been known to say at an enemy's back what he would not dare to say to his face. Probably these have made him some enemies, but in all the State there is not a more honest man than William T. Price. He is a man of power in many directions, enterprising, thoroughly public spirited, and is a valuable man to the State.

"PROF." NOLAN.

WISCONSIN CONGRESSMEN.

Their Positions on the Senatorial Question.

Special Dispatch to the Sunday Telegraph.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—A few weeks ago, it was claimed in our own Republican papers that all the Congressmen were for Sawyer for Senator against Keyes. Either that report was false at the time, or a sharp revolution has taken place, for now not one of our Congressmen will admit that he is for Sawyer. Williams of the First district, who was reported for Sawyer, and whose leanings were probably that way, has concluded that he is not called upon to take sides. Caswell and Hazelton are strong for Keyes. Stumphur holds aloof, at least so far. Pound, as a candidate for a cabinet position, does not give himself away by meddling in the senatorial fight, but understands well enough that Sawyer and the railroad and pine land things of which Sawyer is the head centre, are bitterly hostile to his cabinet aspirations, having views of their own to pine and railroad lands which would probably come in conflict with a thoroughly tested honest and obstinate secretary of the interior.

The Wisconsin feeling is entirely with Pound in the fight. Angus Cameron is favorable to Sawyer, but his relations to the contest will hardly affect the result.

DISAPPOINTMENT.

The Messengers of the Electors Disappointed in their Pay.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The messengers who brought the electoral vote of the different States here have been disappointed as to the amount of mileage they receive. Heretofore it has been 25 cents per mile each way. In the last appropriation bill it was changed to 25 cents for one way only. The messengers growl at this but there is no help for it. A man can travel comfortably on 12½ cents a mile. The vote of Georgia has not yet appeared by messenger, but it has arrived through the mail. The vote of New York was brought by John Jacob Astor. He is entitled to about $30 mileage, but has not and probably will not apply for it. A man in his circumstances cannot be expected to walk up the treasury steps for so small a sum as $90.

WRECKING A TRAIN.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 19.—An attempt was made at an early hour this morning to wreck a train on the Wisconsin Central railway half way between Elkurt Lake and Plymouth, about fifty miles from this city. The attempt, it is supposed, was directed at the express train reaching here at 3 A. M., or the pay car, which passed recently. A number of loose rails were placed across the track in a lonely spot. Fortunately a wild freight train was the first to reach the place, and, striking the obstruction, the engine was thrown from the track, but kept the road-bed. A brakeman was immediately sent back to flag the coming express-train. When but a short distance back, the brakeman was accosted by a man, who asked if the pay-car had passed, and being answered that it had, pulled a revolver and demanded the robber's money, which he gave to the robber, amounting to about $40. Simultaneously with the first demand, two men appeared on either side of the track, from the underbrush. After the robbery all disappeared and no trace of them has since been found.

A ROCKFORD FIRE.

ROCKFORD, Ill., December 19.—About 12 o'clock last night a fire broke out in the millinery house of Mrs. J. N. Dewitt. An alarm was at once sounded, and the fire department were soon on the spot. The fire started on the ground floor, and followed up a wooden partition to the roof, so that when one part was under control the other was fast gaining headway. The entire contents of this store were soon totally swept away, and the adjoining stores on either side, one occupied by C. T. Henry, clothing dealer, and Shantz & Adams, merchant tailors, and the other by Wm. Gibson as a millinery and furnishing store, suffered a great amount of damage from the water used in quelling the flames. The total loss cannot as yet be fully estimated, but it will probably reach between $10,000 and $15,000. The insurance will doubtless cover the damages.

IN GOOD HEALTH.

General Garfield in Good Health and Less Troubled With Visitors.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 19.—A gentleman just arrived from the vicinity of Mentor reports General Garfield in excellent health, and less troubled with visitors than some time ago. The bad weather has proved a fortunate relief to him in that respect. This gentleman says that there is no foundation for the reports of poor health set afloat some time ago, except that intense mental exertion and anxiety after the Maine election caused the General to have attacks of indigestion. He has relief from this now, and is in prime condition.

CONTESTED ELECTION.

MILWAUKEE, Dec. 19.—It is announced upon authority that the Democrats of Dane county intend to contest the election of Sheriff Weeks and District Attorney Lafollette, on the grounds that the students of the University and members of the law class are not legal voters. There were some hundred and fifty students and about fifty of the law class voted, two-thirds of whom voted the Republican ticket. Should it be decided that the above votes were illegal it will change the result on those two officials. Weeks having been elected by some 65 majority, and Lafollette by about 100.

A HORSE THIEF.

MADISON, Dec. 18.—R. Kentler, a liveryman of this city, had a valuable team of horses and a buggy stolen day before yesterday by a man claiming his name was Mead and residence in Rockford, Ill. The team is described as a sorrel team—a mare with a white star and a horse—square topped buggy with cloth cushions, plated harness, red pads, and buffalo robe with blue lining. Mead is described as smooth-faced, thick-set well-dressed, wearing a light ulster. He has been traced as far as Monroe Wis., going south. A liberal reward is offered for his arrest.

A BIG SUIT.

RACINE, Dec. 19.—Hon. J. I. Case has begun a suit against Fish Bros. & Co., claiming that they owe him $150,000, money and interest, advanced them, and $350,000 to other parties, procured on his credit, and for which he is legally responsible; that they refuse to recognize his claim, and he therefore asks the appointment of a receiver, with a view to securing his rights in equity.

CHICAGO GOSSIP.

From Our Regular Correspondent.

CHICAGO, Dec. 20.—The amount of grain in Chicago at present is eight millions of bushels, and the receipts constantly increasing. Shipments are large and steady.

Mess pork is advancing, and hogs of all kinds find a ready sale at better figures.

The residence and business blocks erected this year numbers 1,450 and cost $7,250,000.

The number of buildings of all kinds, in contemplation for erection next year is 1,775. This includes three large theatres, fourteen churches, three hotels, two large passenger depots, and three freight depots.

Our most esteemed and worthy citizen J. H. Conrad, is about erecting a handsome residence, which for elegance and comfort will compete with any in the city.

There are 131 miles of street railway in the city. Eleven miles were constructed the present year. Over 110,000 persons of all ages ride on the street cars daily, and the gross receipts of the three companies is $11,400 per day, on an average.

The amount of lumber received in Chicago the present year was 1,483,746,230 feet.

Nearly one hundred Chinese emigrants arrived from the Pacific coast, last week. Chicago now contains over 1,200 celestials. The above includes one Mandarin and a dozen high dignitaries, one of whom is seven feet two inches in height.

A German firm of large capital will soon start a tobacco pipe manufacture in our midst, on an extensive scale, giving employment to between three and four hundred persons.

The superintendent of buildings is engaged in thoroughly examining all the actors and all other public halls, with a view to better ventilation, modes of exit, warmth, &c., &c., and will enforce all rules and regulations, looking to public comfort, safety and welfare.

Iron ash boxes are now provided for citizens by the board of public works, and heavy taxes are imposed on all who deposit their ashes and other refuse elsewhere. The boxes are removed, emptied and replaced by city employees at certain hours.

Very little good butter can now be obtained in the city, only from one place, which I mentioned some time ago. It is most all grossly adulterated, and real butter is added to the adulterated article in order to give it a genuine and respectable appearance.

A full disregard has been paid to the city ordinance of late, in regard to hitching teams, and as a consequence many runways and serious accidents are of constant occurrence. Half dozen arrests were made on Saturday, and fines imposed.

A Chinaman committed suicide on Friday because he could not pay his debts. Our business men do not resort to any such folly, they go into bankruptcy, and ever afterwards live like princes.

We wish the Gazette and all readers a merry and enjoyable Christmas.

KENTUCKY LIFE.

Peculiarities Social and Domestic—A Sketch of Kentuckians.

Frankfort Letter to the New York Evening Post.

There is absolutely no class distinction in a small Kentucky city. All white men, at least, are free and equal. The tailor, the saloon keeper, the state officers, the boy who runs with the fire engine, are on an absolute level. The immediate consequences are a general sameness in all the walks of life, and a lack of individuals preeminent above their fellows for any qualities whatsoever. All Kentuckians men and women seem to have been molded in one common form, so far as their intellectual and social disposition is concerned. They think alike, they talk alike.

They all talk alike because they all employ the local dialect, and are all afflicted with the local drawl. The general tendency in conversation is to take one's time and use a great many more words than are necessary, very often, perhaps, in order to conceal the smallness of the thought. In general their pronunciation seems peculiar to an easterner, both on account of the singular purity of their vowel sounds and their constant insertion of superfluous 'v's in all possible situations. The plural of all pronouns is formed in Kentucky by the addition of the word 'all' to the singular. The plural of you is 'you-all', and as an expansion of the rule, the plural of I is also in like manner 'we-all'. Another peculiar peculiarity occurs in the use of the prepositions. It is by no means an uncommon thing to hear the inquiry, "Where is my hat at?" Nor is a stranger apt to be demoralized by it for he has probably been telling from the moment of his first arrival, "where he came from at." The Kentuckians, principal adjectives are "sure-enough," pronounced as one word with the accent on the first syllable; "right smart," meaning quite full or very good; and clever in the sense of agreeable. They are seldom content to answer a question by yes or no, but add some auxiliary words to make
